

THEY are having strenuous times over in Waterloo, Ill. About 90 per cent. of the population is German, and a goodly portion of that per cent. needs deportation to the land of Kultur, if the account of recent occurrences there given the Post-Dispatch is true. Chas. Morrison, 66, after a speech to the departing drafted men, was set upon by Henry Theobald, 26, and beaten and kicked. Theobald was arrested and taken to the Marshal's home. Later he was released on an order from Mayor Henry Mitchell, who told a Post-Dispatch reporter he ordered the release because he believed Theobald crazy or he wouldn't have attacked Morrison. The question arises, if Theobald is crazy, what warrant did the mayor have for turning him loose upon decent society? Another instance: Earl Wolf, 39 years old, son of Ernest Wolf, a saloon-keeper, was attacked and beaten at midnight in front of his home about three weeks ago. The reason for this, he told a reporter, was that he refused to sign a petition asking Congress to amend the conscription law, so that drafted men would not be sent out of the United States to fight. When he refused to sign this petition, he said, he was told he "belonged in England." Later he was followed to his home at night and beaten. Charles Kaack, Marcellus Hartmann and Herman Wolf pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting Morrison and were fined $5 each. They're mighty lenient on "snicker" propagandists in Waterloo. In some sections the offenders would play leading roles in impromptu necktie parties.
